

CHARGE EXPLOSION IN WALL STREET TO LABOR SOURCES

The New York World Makes a Startling Accusation

DOES NOT CHARGE UNION WITH CRIME

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Responsibility for the disastrous Wall Street explosion last September, the echo of which was heard around the denunciations of "reds" and "anarchists" today was charged to individual laboring men or labor sympathizers by the New York Evening World.

In a three page story the paper announced that the mystery of the blast that killed nearly 40 persons and injured 150 more had been "solved."

The theory advanced was that the death wagon in which the bomb had exploded had not been sent into the financial district to "terrorize the capitalist class," but that it had been intended as a reprisal against Robert P. Brindell, president of the building trades council and 85 Brindell workers employed in demolishing the stock exchange building.

Held up on the way the bomb was believed by the paper to have exploded before it reached its destination.

Seeking to link the explosion with the "building trust graft" now being investigated by a joint legislative committee, the paper naming a house wreckers' union said:

"The Evening World here presents proof that 1,800 men, mostly all foreign born, sober, industrious, efficient and well disciplined, have within a space of eighteen months been subjected to an amazing conspiracy of greed and injustice and the explosion was the culmination of this tyrannical. The building trades graft was responsible for the crime."

Work of Individuals.
The Evening World does not charge the union, as a union, with responsibility. It was the work of individuals possibly inside the union, possible the work of sympathizers.

District Attorney Swann this afternoon announced he had invited every person mentioned in the newspaper story to be at his office tomorrow afternoon. He added if they had any information likely to result in indictment of guilty parties he would immediately place it before the September regular grand jury which already has investigated the disaster.

The story stressed a charge that efforts had been made by unnamed persons to prevent evidence relating to the catastrophe from coming to light.

Witness "Goes Dumb."
It was brought out that a man who was alleged to have claimed ownership of the horse which drew the death wagon, immediately after the blast, and spoke of the "boss" who had directed him to drive the conveyance to Wall and Broad streets, had disappeared. One of the men to whom he told his story and who repeated in repeating it was the victim of an attempted assassination within a month according to the story, despite the fact that he had "gone dumb."

This man, at whom three shots were fired one night in October, the story declared was Raymond Clark, chief foreman of a gang of house wreckers who were tearing down the stock exchange annex. Clark it continues is a Brindell lieutenant employed by a firm of building contractors.

"Within the present week" the story continued, "The Evening World has found two business men of high standing to whom Clark told it the afternoon of the explosion, and to whom he mentioned it again when explaining to them the attempt to assassinate him three weeks ago. And so certain are these two business men of the justification for Clark's frightened silence that they would not talk to the investigators at all until they had a promise guaranteed by higher authority than that of the reporter that their names would not be published."

FAVOR ADMISSION OF ENEMY STATES TO PEACE LEAGUE

Lord Robert Cecil is Said to Favor Such Action

WILL TAKE UP GERMANY'S CASE

GENEVA, Nov. 11.—(By the Associated Press.)—Lord Robert Cecil, one of the chief authors of the league of nations covenant, who is coming to the assembly of the league as a delegate from South Africa, will support the proposed immediate admission to the league of former enemy states it is expected here.

Italy, Switzerland, the Scandinavian states and some of the South American nations are understood to be favorable to such a plan.

France, Belgium, Rumania, Jugoslavia and Czechoslovakia will resist the admission of Germany and Hungary although they are not unfavorable to Austria and Bulgaria. There are indications in league circles that the drift toward admission of former enemy countries is strong and likely to reach the necessary two thirds of the members unless a compromise is effected.

The sentiment is growing that whatever may be the merits of the case the discussion in the assembly is likely to develop a sharp controversy, which the leading members of the league desire to avoid. At the first session it is probable the immediate admission of Austria and Bulgaria will be proposed and an effort made to have action in the case of Germany postponed to another meeting of the assembly probably in the spring.

Attention is being directed to the admission of Germany while she is still technically at war with the United States.

The meeting of the assembly will be held in the hall of reformations auditorium seating 3,000. It was erected in honor of John Calvin. The proceedings will be conducted in French and English but interpreters will be provided for the German, Arabic, Scandinavian, Dutch, Italian, Portuguese, Russian, Polish, Croatian and Czech languages.

RED CROSS WORKERS HELD CONFERENCE

Women Who are to be Active in Ward Work in Membership Drive Met Thursday Night—Heard Statements About Work That Has Been Done.

Women workers who are to be active in the Red Cross roll call membership campaign met for conference and supper at Central Christian church last night, in accordance with arrangement made by County Campaign Manager Earl M. Spink. After the supper Mr. Spink presided and made a brief statement about the work in prospect. Mrs. Frank J. Hehl, president of the Red Cross, presented the report of Miss Ausim in reference to the child welfare work done under the auspices of the chapter. The facts set forth made very clear both the need for this service and the efficiency with which the work is being done.

A report by Mrs. Norma Dawson, district leader, related a number of incidents where ex-service men had been helped and several cases where men had been assisted in securing back pay to which they were properly entitled from the government. In still other ways a number of men were given the assistance they desired.

Dr. C. E. Black told of what the Red Cross is accomplishing in some other localities in its peace program, and emphasized the worth of this work. He mentioned that if it did nothing else, the locating of deficient children and providing the needed care, that it was giving value received. This work with deficient children is of such a kind that many of them are prepared for educational training which they would in no other way receive.

Miss Belden, who is here to direct the Red Cross survey, talked in an interesting way of the progress of the work and cited what is being done in other cities to give an idea of the possibilities of the work.

T. M. Tomlinson, who is county Red Cross chairman, spoke of the Red Cross work in general and of the benefit to the community and the county from the organization.

Already there is Leggett & Moore's up-to-date filling station, and Jack Skinner's Auto Supply house. In the block north of the Berger-Overland garage, and Ed Ranson's garage, will be across the street is the Prest-O-Lite Battery Company. HARDING DELIVERS ARMISTICE DAY ADDRESS IN TEXAS

Offer Friendship and Peace But Demand Freedom

MANY MEXICANS HEAR ADDRESS

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Nov. 11.—(By The Associated Press.)—Facing a border crowd in which were many citizens of Mexico and several officials of the Mexican government, President-elect Harding proposed here today a foreign policy directed toward peace and friendship but demanding always full protection of American nationality and American citizens wherever they may go.

The address which was his first prepared utterance since his election to the presidency was delivered from a stand on the Fort Brown parade grounds within a few hundred yards of the international boundary. The cavalry sabres of the Fort Brown garrison rattled about him, but in a place of honor on his right was also a part of the Mexican garrison of Matamoros, paying a visit of compliment and courtesy to the next American president. In the course of his address devoted jointly to the significance of the Armistice Day anniversary and to the country's foreign relations, he did not mention Mexico by name nor did he refer directly to the league of nations.

"We crave fraternity," he said, "we wish amicable relations everywhere we offer peace and choose to promote it, but we demand our freedom and our own American nationality. I believe an American citizen on the seas, respected in every avenue of trade will be safer at home and greater in influence throughout the world. I like to think of an America whose citizens are ever seeking the greater development and widened influence of the republic and I like to think of a government which protects its citizens wherever they go on a lawful mission anywhere under the shining sun."

In the parade, which included an elaborate pageant representing historical epoch and demonstrating productive possibilities of the valley, Mexican Consul Vasquez, of Brownsville and American Consul Wilson, of Matamoros rode together each carrying the flag of his nation. Many other Mexican flags were in the procession and the military band of Matamoros garrison had a place just behind the fourth cavalry squadron which acted as the president-elect's escort.

General Lopez, military governor of Matamoros district was one of those who sat on the speakers stand.

URANIA LODGE HAD ANNIVERSARY EVENT

Membership Largely Represented at Meeting Held Thursday Night—Banquet Followed Program.

Urania lodge roll call proved a most interesting event. This long time organization of Odd Fellowship and that membership was well represented last night. Carl H. Weber presided as chairman and the invocation was by Rev. W. E. Spooner. After the company joined in singing "America," the Mandolin club played a selection. Then Rev. G. W. Randle presented two reels of pictures which the company found interesting. There was another selection by the Mandolin club and then Miss Esther Harber of Illinois Woman's college gave a reading which well demonstrated her fine ability.

Then the chairman called upon various members, who had long time associations with the lodge the list including J. T. Osborne, J. W. Bowen, T. M. Tomlinson, Rev. W. E. Spooner and E. M. Vasconcellos. There was more music, preceding the address by Rev. M. L. Pontius. The minister followed his custom of having something worth while to say. He referred to the beneficent influence of Odd Fellowship, and applied some of the principles the order exemplifies to general affairs of life.

Then came the banquet and everyone present can attest the fact that the committee in charge had made most generous arrangements. The committee for this anniversary occasion included Judge W. E. Thomson, Maurice Peckham and Charles Goodey.

MARKED INTEREST AT EVANGELISTIC MEETING

The interest was very marked at the evangelistic meeting at Central Christian church last night, when one of the largest week night audiences ever assembled in the church was present. Dr. Violette read from memory the 22nd chapter of Revelations and took for his text "What Must I Do to Be Saved?" He discussed the fundamental issues of the Christian life as compared with a life outside the Christian belief. He maintained that the plan of salvation is not a sectarian consideration but a law of life. There were five additions to the church, and as indicated, the interest increased from night to night as people were made to see that the ways of righteousness lead to eternal life.

ENGLISH MONUMENT TO HEROIC DEAD UNVEILED THURSDAY

Imposing Ceremonies Witnessed by Thousands of Notables and Citizens

CENOTAPH ALMOST BURIED WITH FLOWERS

LONDON, Nov. 11.—In historic Whitehall tonight, Great Britain's newly unveiled monument to her glorious dead stood half buried beneath hundreds of flower tokens to the nation's sorrowing appreciation of their sacrifices.

A few hundred yards away in Westminster Abbey amidst the tombs of the realms of great men reposed the body of the empire's "newest immortal"—an unknown comrade of those whose deeds the Cenotaph memorializes.

Every part of the empire, all classes of its citizens from the humblest private, participated in the impressive unveiling ceremonies and the subsequent burial rites in the abbey.

During the ceremonies, Whitehall and the streets adjacent to the abbey were jammed with people, most of whose faces mutely told the tale of lost loved ones. The two minutes silence which fell over this whole concourse as "Big Ben" thundered the hour of eleven seemed to vibrate with the repressed emotions. It was a silence broken only by the hysterical shriek of a woman who collapsed from the intensity of its spell. On the tenth stroke of the great gong the king pulled the cord unveiling the imposing monument, and with the others stood uncovered with bowed heads. Then, after his wreath and those of the prince of Wales and the official colonial representatives had been reverently deposited at the base of the cenotaph, the field marshal pall bearers with their hallowed burden moved on to the abbey, the king following the flag draped coffin.

The men on board the missing Barr of Lake Forest, Illinois, the plane were Lieutenant Harry E. commander, Ensign Edwin M. Clark, Peoria, Ill., and Gunner's Mate John C. Easler of Hollywood, Illinois.

HOME BREWERS LIKELY TO MEET WITH DIFFICULTIES

Rule Against Sale of Hops and Malt to Citizens

NEAR BEER MAKERS PROTEST

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—(By The Associated Press.)—Home brewing was brought actively under the prohibition ban today when it was learned that enforcement officials had ruled against the sale of hops and malt to others than bakers and confectioners. Greeted by the prohibition bureau's action but it was definitely ascertained that such instructions had been issued.

Details of the order were lacking. The only admission made by prohibition officials in the absence of Commissioner Kramer was that the Volstead act had been construed to mean that the sale of malt and hops as component parts of home made beer without the pale of the law and their sale must stop. Enforcement officials thought the country have been notified of the government's determination but they have not been supplied with the technical language of the decision.

New Orders Issued.
The construction of the law which resulted in the new orders was made nearly two months ago.

At that time officials having in charge started a document thru the regular procedure from which it emerges as a treasury decision. But it has not yet been approved by Secretary Houston. Further than to admit existence of the proposed ruling, officials declined to discuss it.

Emphatic denial was made to the report that the bureau had considered or had included in the order other articles used in homebrewing. Officials likewise denied that provision was to be made for the licensing of even the bakers and confectioners, apparently the only persons who will be able to purchase hops and malt.

There were rumors at both the prohibition and internal revenue headquarters that scores of complaints had come from the manufacturers of cereal beverages containing less than one half of one percent of alcohol against the tremendous growth of brewing as a home industry. On this phase of the situation officials also refused comment.

It was understood, however, that the beverage manufacturers complain had been based on a steady but rapid decrease in their sales which they charged to the growth of home brewing. They were understood to have protested to the internal revenue bureau that enforcement agents were enforcing the alcoholic restrictions on them while the home brewer with the aid of hops and malt has been able to produce a beverage approximating old fashioned beer.

UNKNOWN SOLDIER LAID TO REST IN APOTHEOSIS OF GLORY

No King or Emperor Were Ever Given Such Honors

TRIBUTE PAID BY FRENCH PRESIDENT

PARIS, Nov. 11.—The body of an unknown soldier, the symbol of France's victory in the war, was laid in its final resting place beneath the Arc de Triomphe today in an apotheosis of glory accompanied by expressions of the gratitude of two millions of his countrymen and allies.

Never in the history of France has a king or emperor been afforded such honors as those tendered the unknown soldier. The body of Napoleon, returning from St. Helena, did not stir the French to such a depth of emotion as did this obscure, nameless man.

Not a cheer was heard and not a tear was shed, the five year war having long since dried up the wells of Paris' tears. The silence was respectfully oppressive, a heavy fog hanging like a pall over the silent city.

The most impressive ceremony was at the Pantheon where all the prominent men of political, official and judicial Paris had assembled. Three Marshals of France all the generals prominent in the war and the whole diplomatic corps with the exception of the German Ambassador, listened to President Millerand's speech.

Tribute to a Unknown Soldier.
Addressing the unknown soldier's coffin, President Millerand alluded to the American soldiers, saying:

"Unknown soldier, nameless and triumphant representative of the gallant multitudes of Poles, the dead who lie in cold graves in the soil of Flanders, Champagne, Verdun and so many other battlefields, famous or unknown; young heroes who came to us from the other side of the Atlantic, the British Isles and distant dominions from Italy, Belgium and Serbia, from all points of the earth to offer your lives for the ideal which France once more is representing, sleep in peace! You have fulfilled your destiny."

President Millerand ended his address with a tribute to Leon Gambetta, the famous French patriot whom he spoke of as:

"Gambetta, who in 1870 was the great organizer of the National Defense, Gambetta, who after the treaty of Frankfurt, awaited the revenge of imminent justice; Gambetta whose enthusiasm, warmth of heart and whole aspiration of soul was on the morrow of disaster, a song of hope soaring above the ruins, Gambetta whom by illustrious predecessor called a part of the religion of France."

After the president's oration the procession took up the march to the Arc de Triomphe.

President Walks Bareheaded.
President Millerand walked bareheaded with Marshals Joffre, Poincaré and Pétain in full regalia, following behind a 155 gun of the model of 1915 bearing the body of the unknown soldier.

Valorous, mud-stained soldiers, painfully drawing their wounded bodies, but with faces radiant with pride, opened the procession.

"We captured Gienchy," one soldier minus a leg said, "I would go through it again if necessary."

Old Pollus of the Marine battle of 1914, wearing red trousers and kepis, received subdued applause while flowers were thrown from windows on the car bearing the heart of Gambetta.

The procession reached the Arc de Triomphe shortly afterward. The body of the Pollus and the Urn containing the heart of Gambetta were placed in the Chapelle ardente and the procession broke up. The crowds were permitted to file past the coffin and then wended their way homeward, after one last look at the soldier draped in the tri-color flag above which, as well as a million and a half other Frenchmen gave up their lives.

This afternoon a group of little girls in the name of the French government decorated the graves of American soldiers in Suresnes Cemetery in the presence of Ambassador Wallace, American Legion and French officials and numerous Americans.

IRISH HOME RULE BILL IS PASSED ON THIRD READING

Action Taken Without Special Showing of Interest

PREMIER PROMISES PLOT REVELATIONS

LONDON, Nov. 11.—The Irish Home Rule bill passed the house of commons on its third reading tonight, after a session of revision of the measure proposed by William C. Adamson, the opposition leader, had been defeated 183 to 57.

The measure passed without any noteworthy incident in a rather tame debate. The Liberal and Labor members who have boycotted it thru most of its stages as a sign of their conviction of its hopelessness of the Irish problem were again absent today. The final stage was reached in a small and rather listless gathering of members of the house.

Former Premier Asquith appealed for advantage to be taken of the associations and emotions aroused by the anniversary of armistice day, which could not be paid to a further use than an endeavor to find a basis of real settlement for Ireland.

Called Generous Measure.
Premier Lloyd George replying contended that the present bill was a generous measure but the Irish people were not in a temper to give it proper understanding and consideration. He declared that documents to be published at an early date found in the possession of Sinn Fein leaders in 1918, proving they were involved in a German plot, would show the necessity of England retaining complete control of Irish harbors. To give Ireland the power to raise a conscript army, he said, would be a dangerous menace to Great Britain and he warned the laborites that with an army of that kind in Ireland under full powers of Irish dominion rule conscription in England would become inevitable.

He contended that it was a daily imperative to allow Ireland her own navy, which was quite needless for her national life and could only be used for the peril of Great Britain and her own destruction. He argued that it was fruitless talk of granting physical education to people still demanding a republic. Expressing a fervent hope for the removal of misunderstandings which would make the future less dark, the premier closed with a note of emotion.

Tribute to Ireland.
"It may be that it was an Irish soldier we honored today. Ireland has had a great and brilliant share in the empire. Some of her greatest and most gallant warriors helped to fight for the empire. Some of her greatest statesmen—the shining wisdom of Burke and the stern leadership of Wellington—all contributed to build the empire."

"All we ask is that Ireland should not in a moment of anger cast away an inheritance which is as much hers as ours but join in the empire that it helped to build."

Woodcock, Macon banker who was shot to death in the streets of Macon at 3:20 Wednesday morning indicated that the banker had planned to take his own life. He wrote the letter Saturday. ceived the nomination for the county surveyor.

Chicago carpenters, who have a scale of $1 an hour, had an agreement for an additional 10c an hour to become effective soon, now the unions on their own volition have cancelled this agreement for the 10c increase. They say that it is not justified with lower prices in various lines here and imminent. That looks like an unbiased way of considering facts.

Members of the grand jury which served at the November term of the circuit court set a new record. The foreman of the jury said Monday that the men serving expected to be able to conclude all the business within three or four days and adjourn. This was done and the jury made its report Thursday morning. Despite the rapidity, no one is able to charge that the work was not well done.

President-elect Harding has indicated his genuine interest in the suffering children of France by his generous subscription to the Literary Digest fund for the feeding of European children. Now that the days of the war are quite a distance back in history, less and less is heard of the sorrowful conditions overseas. But it is sad that those who know that appalling conditions still exist and that the suffering among women and children is almost beyond belief. There are many good causes at home which demand attention, but they do not lessen the righteousness of the appeal for the orphaned war children.

FINE ADVERTISING FOR JACKSONVILLE

Jacksonville people have for months past been experiencing the pleasure of a water system which provides an adequate and safe supply. There is more than the pleasure of possession, for there has been a sense of satisfaction that citizens joined so unitedly in an enterprise which measures up to the most sanguine expectations.

Now we have proof of a third benefit for the city is securing the best kind of advertising out of the water supply enterprise. Jacksonville people are greatly disturbed over the water situation in that city and so a representative of the principal paper in Jacksonville came to Jacksonville, looked over the situation, saw that the claims made were entirely justified by the facts, and is now telling Jacksonville citizens in a series of articles about what Jacksonville has done. With a maintenance of the spirit which brought the solution of the water question here, other good things can come to pass for Jacksonville.

FREE TRADE EFFECTS.

While the Democrats who favor the free trade principle are pointing to the business prosperity of recent years as an evidence that the protective tariff principle is erroneous and wrong, business history contradicts them. There have been prosperous times but as a result of the conditions which the war brought. Without those unusual conditions business would have been in a bad way.

The American Economist recalls some facts which it would be well to keep in mind when considering the relative merits of free trade and protective tariff policies as related to the business affairs of this country:

"The only fair way to decide upon the effects of Free-Trade is by considering conditions during normal times, when there is not an increased demand and an underproduction. The way to judge of the effect of the Underwood Tariff is to consider economic conditions before the war commenced and since the war has ended.

"In February, 1914, it was estimated that over 325,000 work people were out of employment in Greater New York City alone. A Miss Rose Axtell said that she represented 100,000 unemployed women and that they would not accept charity. She added that 'If they can't live one way they will another.' The Bulletin of the State Department of Labor said that on September 30, 1913, there were in New York 101,140 organized wage earners, out of 600,000, out of employment.

"It was estimated that on the same date there were 300,000 of unorganized workmen in the state of New York out of employment. In March, 1914, an official observer estimated that the number of unemployed in the city had increased to 350,000. From February 19 to February 23, 1919, the New York Globe printed, free of charge, advertisements of 6,375 different persons seeking employment. During the same period it printed only 276 'Help Wanted' advertisements."

ARMISTICE DAY A BEGINNING

Armistice Day is not yet a legal holiday but it had just as general an observance as if in the authorized list. It is almost certain that one of the acts of the next congress will be to legalize that day, which is one of the most notable in the world history. One of the most significant Armistice day editorials appeared in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. It writes a sublime meaning into the observance of the day, with the following significant sentences:

"It is the anniversary of a burial and a resurrection. In the midst of the waves of that colossal storm that still buffets up, and that subside so slowly, it is not easy to see the full significance of that war, or to measure its results. The spiritual fires it kindled seem to have been extinguished. The sublime heroism seems to have been in vain. But this is only the illusion of the inevitable reaction. Supreme efforts are always followed by languor. Great attainments are succeeded by discouragement. Victory is always attended by defeat. The darkest hours in American history were not before or during the Revolution but after it, not before or during the Civil War, but after it.

"That other great Golgotha was followed by years when the sacrifice on the cross seemed to be of no avail, when the divine light seemed to be wholly extinguished and the iniquities and the oppression of Rome greater than ever. God, it appeared, had looked upon the earth for a beautiful moment and then had turned away. But it was only in seeming. Who remembers now the anarchy which made even Washington despair for the country whose battles he had won? Who remembers the sorrows and trials and evils of the days of reconstruction? Who remembers the period when the disciples were scattered, discouraged and disconsolate? It is out of the valley of the shadows that men ever rise to higher elevations, and then the shadows are forgotten in the sunlight upon the hills.

"In truth, Armistice Day does not mark an ending but a beginning. The glorious boys who sleep beneath the poppies in France did not die in vain. Nor were the wounds and the service of others futile. There is no sacrifice without compensation, no burial without resurrection, and this most stupendous of all sacrifices of humanity has a meaning and a consequence not to be measured in the few but many years.

"Armistice Day, we repeat, is a birthday, the anniversary of a beginning, and in its celebration we should not only recognize the glories that have been, but discern upon the far horizon the promises of the glories that are to be, thru the grace of the sacrifices of the years of war, and through the grace of Him who ever leads us upward."

Rippling Rhymes By Walt Mason

TIME PASSES.

Full soon the blizzards will be popping and hanging snow wreaths on our brows, and we'll be asked to do our shopping as early as the law allows. It seems no time since bells were ringing proclaiming Christmas peace once more, that happy time when Dad was bringing a ton of finerecks from the store. It seems no time since old Kris Kringle propelled his flyover thru the night; the echo of his sleighbell's jingle seems all around me as I write. And now we're racing Winter burly, and soon each sheet at which I glance will say, "Please do your shopping early and give the weary clerks a chance." No doubt the children think the seasons have much snails or turtles raced; but we old lads have sundry reasons for cussing. Time's indecent haste. A summer's gone before we know it, and autumn smiles and then it's thru, and e'en a highly moral poet is moved to language warm and blue. The service to his rope is clinging to ring in Christmas joy and cheer; and soon the old boy will be ringing some other bells—and we won't hear. The sky is gray, the wind is surly, more desolate the landscape grows; oh, let us do our shopping early, and give the sway-backed clerks respo-

AMERICAN LEGION BEGINS OBSERVANCE

Four Day Program Arranged by White Hall, Ex-Servicemen—Sergeant McCracken's Funeral to be Held Sunday.

White Hall, Nov. 11.—White Hall began a four-day observance of Armistice Day today with the business section of the city decorated in the national colors, the colors extending here and there all over the residence districts. The American Legion began its three-day indoor carnival in the Spanenberg building on Main street, and this will continue into Saturday night, when a Ford automobile is to be given away. The patronage on the opening day is heavy, and the net result should be a large sum of money netted with which to start a building fund.

Sunday and Sunday night the occasion will be observed in the pulpits. The leading service Sunday night will be in the Presbyterian church, which service will be attended by members of the Legion post in uniform. Rev. Arthur F. Ewert, the post's chaplain will deliver the sermon, and it is believed that all or most of all of most of the other congregations will join in this service.

The remains of Sergeant Henry Don McCracken have reached port from France, and they are expected to reach White Hall in time for holding funeral services Sunday afternoon in either the First Baptist church or Whiteside Park under the auspices of the Legion. He was a grandson of Mrs. M. A. McCracken, and he died November 8th, 1918, from disease. A memorial tree in his honor was dedicated by the White Hall schools on the soldiers' monument grounds on April 3rd, 1919.

County Roll of Honor Announcement can be made at this time that arrangements have been made for the publication of a revised Roll of Honor for northern Greene county, including White Hall and Roodhouse, on a more elaborate and complete scale than was possible with the initial issue for Decoration Day this year, and it is to be ready for distribution May 1st, 1920, or earlier. This arrangement is made possible by Sykes & Fanning, who operate stores at both Roodhouse and White Hall, they having authorized R. B. Pearce, former secretary of the White Hall Soldiers' Monument Association to proceed with a complete revision at their expense, and to have it printed in much better form than the 1920 edition, which attracted attention in soldier quarters all over the state, and which was made possible at the joint effort and expense of C. A. Ruckel and R. B. Pearce. The action taken by Sykes & Fanning also insures the continuation of the work of securing headstones for the unmarked grave of every soldier in northern Greene county. Any other community desiring the compilation of a Roll of Honor such as is annually issued at White Hall may have the services of R. B. Pearce on the same basis as is paid by this White Hall Roodhouse business firm for northern Greene county.

TAKE TIP FROM ONE WHO KNOWS GOOD FROM BAD

Trained Nurse Declares Trutona Is Best System Builder on Market Today

Quincy, Ill., Nov. 11.—"Take a tip from one who knows medicines, and try Trutona, and you'll find it to be the best system builder on the market today," says Mrs. Lena Leeds, who for twenty years was a trained nurse, and lives in Quincy at 614 1/2 Vermont street. "I had suffered a severe attack of influenza last winter which left my system all run down," Mrs. Leeds continued. "It just seemed that I could eat nothing that would agree with me. I was always having to take laxatives. I was so constipated. I had fallen off greatly in weight, and had become very weak."

"After trying many different medicines and treatments that didn't do any good whatever, I began using Trutona. The change proved more than satisfactory to me, and my relief has thoroughly convinced me that Trutona is the best system builder on the market today. My appetite is much improved, and better still, I'm able to eat without suffering afterward. Trutona has regulated my bowels, too. I'm regaining my weight and I've gained 100 per cent in strength."

Mrs. Leeds' statement should convince you that Trutona is the medicine to take for your run-down system. Trutona is just the kind of a tonic everyone needs at this time of the year. It goes straight to the seat of your trouble and revitalizes all the other vital organs of the body. Trutona is sold in Jacksonville by Coover Drug Co., and J. F. Shreve, by Wyle Drug Co., Franklin, Ill., and Wyle Drug Co., Waverly, Ill.—Adv.

LOSS OF THE TEMPORARY TEETH

The following article was written by Rev. Proct McGee M. D., D. D. S., editor of Oral Hygiene:
All temporary teeth that are abscessed must be removed. There must be no delay. Harmless abscesses do not exist. If your child is carrying poison in its mouth and you know it, are you willing to assume the responsibility when the little one suffers from systemic infection, or do you expect to place the blame upon an al wise "Providence." Every child's mouth should be examined at frequent intervals to find out whether or not there is decay or infection or both.

In many cities and towns, both in this country and in Europe, there are public school clinics where the children's mouths are examined and where reparative work is done. In many states the public health boards send out dental clinic committees to examine the mouths of children in the country and small town districts, so that the parents may be informed on the conditions that are present in the mouths of their children. The interest in these clinics is very great. In January, 1920, an examination clinic was being held by the Minnesota Public Health Commission in a far northern district, where the temperature was below zero and the snow was two feet deep. One country school twenty miles away banded up three bobbed loads of little tots and sent them to be examined. The people of that kind of a district appreciate their children and are going to raise them up to be strong, for the purpose of informing the healthy citizens. These clinics are parents what should be done and parents can then take the child to the dentist of their choice and have the child's mouth put in order. When you get a school report on your child's mouth, appreciate it by following instructions.

Since taking the first dose of Masterole, my stomach is feeling fine, can work all day and eat anything I want. Have no more distress or palpitation of the heart from gas on my stomach. I have spent a great deal of money on doctors and medicine but got nothing to help me." Mrs. Ella Leftwick, another Kansas City woman whose remarkable restoration by Tanlac has astonished her neighbors, many of whom have begun taking the Master Medicine. "They all agree with me that it is the grandest medicine on earth," says Mrs. Leftwick.

"A number of my friends, after seeing the wonderful good Tanlac did me, began taking the medicine and now they all agree with me that it is the grandest medicine on earth," said Mrs. Ella Leftwick, 7222 Pile St., Kansas City, Kans. "Tanlac completely restored my health," she said, "and just seemed to give me a new lease on life. If I could talk personally with every woman suffering as I did, I would urge them to take this medicine."

"For the first time in three years I am able to eat and enjoy three hearty meals every day and not suffer in the least with indigestion afterwards. I am never troubled now with the awful smothering spells that used to frighten me so much, and the dreadful headaches that came upon me every day have been entirely broken up."

"I was extremely nervous and couldn't sleep well, but now my nerves are in splendid shape, and I sleep like a child every night. My strength has been so wonderfully increased that I can now do all the housework in my eight-room house and attend to the children besides. I feel just splendidly all the time now. Tanlac is certainly worth its weight in gold."

Tanlac is sold in Jacksonville by Coover Drug Co. and J. F. Shreve and by the leading drug store in every town.—Adv.

Boudoir talks with Sybel on how cocoa butter beautifies the neck

Sybel's neck is round and adorably smooth and today she told me how to make the hollows disappear from my neck.

"A scrawny neck! I loathe the very thought, dear, for women need not allow hollows and bad lines to remain."

"You know, the appearance of the smartest georgette blouse can be made commonplace by a homely under-nourished neck. We owe these dear, dainty garments a beautiful neck for a background."

"Coco-Bloom—made of pure cocoa butter, with other ingredients of equal merit—is a wonderful tissue builder. Rub it thoroughly into the hollows and soon your neck will be the envy of your less fortunate friends who do not appreciate the value of cocoa butter cream."

"Remember, Coco-Bloom is cocoa butter cream, and it supplies exactly what is needed to make your skin healthy."

Alexander, Nov. 11.—The November birthday social of the ladies of the Alexander M. E. church was held Thursday afternoon at the church. The program was arranged in keeping with Armistice day and veterans of the world war were the special guests of the occasion. The program was open to the general public and the attendance was large. The hostesses of the afternoon were Mrs. John Morgan, Mrs. Milton Ruble, Mrs. Saffer, and Mrs. Charles Hagen. The church had been decorated in patriotic colors and presented a very fine appearance.

Rev. J. A. Betcher of Ashland was present and made a brief address, directing his remarks particularly to the soldiers. At the close of the program the hostesses served suitable refreshments. Altogether it was a very fitting Armistice day event.

ARMISTICE DAY IS FITTINGLY OBSERVED

Service Star Legion Dedicates Victory Drive—Hon. H. H. Bancroft, Speaker of the Day—Exercises Held In Grace Church.

With planting of trees in honor of brave soldiers in the World War, with patriotic exercises, eloquent addresses, soul-stirring music and reverence on the part of the people, places of business closed on the occasion, Armistice Day, Nov. 11, 1920, has been duly honored in our beautiful city.

It was a sore disappointment that the inclement weather forbade the carrying out of the program as first intended at the beginning of the victory drive, but like time and tide, cold weather waits for no man, so Grace church was kindly opened for the occasion and filled with a splendid audience anxious to honor the day. The church was superbly decorated with flags and flowers. Special seats were reserved for the Boy Scouts, who were present in good numbers, and for the war mothers, each whom wore a beautiful white rose.

Mrs. Carriel, president of the War Mothers' association, presided most fittingly and in a clear, resonant voice, announced the numbers.

The music was a fine feature of the occasion. Mrs. Barr Brown and Mrs. A. R. Gregory led in "Star Spangled Banner," the audience grandly joining. After prayer by Rev. T. H. Tuill, Miss Louise Miller of the Woman's college sang most acceptably, "There Is No Death." "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" was another community sing. The High School Glee club sang two selections, "One and United" and "America, the Beautiful." Miss Ruth Armstrong of Illinois college sang in a fine manner, "Flander's Requiem," with Miss McCurley accompanying, and all united in "America."

With highly complimentary words Mrs. Carriel introduced the principal speaker of the day, H. H. Bancroft, who proceeded to deliver a fine address, full of eloquence, pathos and patriotism. He said in part:

"This is a day of unspeakable meaning and shows how we interpret the great World war, so fresh in the memory of all of us. It is impossible for any speaker fully to review the events of that mighty conflict. How shall we interpret its meaning. The day will rank in importance with July Fourth, Thanksgiving and all our great anniversaries. It has for us a deep and significant meaning if we can properly see it. I think of the struggle for independence 150 years ago when thirteen small colonies defied one of the greatest nations on earth and won their place in the family of nations."

"Then was fired a shot that was heard all around the world when the brave little band gathered in the old city of Philadelphia to unite in the grand document which declared that all are free and equal with inalienable rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. George Washington was the first president coming from his retreat in Mt. Vernon to take the helm and guide the ship of state and he was called to Philadelphia to confer regarding the framing of a constitution declared by Gladstone to be the best of its kind ever prepared by human hands."

"Struggle of the Colonies. This began the career of the 13 colonies, poor in everything but indomitable courage and grand ability and unsurpassed patriotism. Their work and that of their successors has had a grand effect on the world and the colonies have grown to be the mightiest nation on the globe. The war of '76 was for freedom and taxation with representation; the war of 1812 was to protect our flag on the high seas; the war with Mexico added to the area of a glorious republic; the war of 1861 was a mighty conflict. The nations of Europe looked on rather pleased that the experiment of free government had failed for they were sure it would, and really the nation had held together longer than they expected, but again the Stars and Stripes conquered and now we are a free nation indeed. With Abraham Lincoln at the helm of the ship of state; with General Grant at the head of the armies, both from the plain people, and with Sherman, Sheridan, Thomas, Grierson and an illustrious list leading the brave troops of the Union a mighty victory was won.

"Again we took up arms to free a sister country, Cuba, and without any desire for territory or gain and at last when haughty autocracy and cruel tyranny menaced the whole world and seemed about to gain the victory our brave boys went across the seas and fought with all the skill, vigor, undaunted courage and intelligence for which we are noted, and again victory perched on the Stars and Stripes, along with the banners of the allies."

Astonished the World.

"The whole world was astonished at the wonderful fighting qualities of our men across the seas. Though from the walks of civil life they fought like seasoned veterans and soon spread terror in the hearts of the foe. Let Argonne, Verdun, Chateau Thierry, Meuse and many, many more bloody battle fields tell of the devotion and courage of our noble men. They braved hardships; they reveled in danger; they defied the trained hosts of the foe; they bearded the lion in his very den and struck consternation in the heart of the kaiser who had thought to float his flag in the capital of our land. Never in all history has a record exceeded that of our noble men on the soil of Europe and coming generations will extol their deeds. The battles of that war will go along with Saratoga, Brandywine, Bull Run, Gettysburg and other mighty conflicts of the past."

"It is with mingled joy and sadness that we meet here today. Sad when we think of the graves on the other side, but joyous when we recall what our brave defenders did for our land and for the world. Let us so live that we may be worthy of the deeds of our noble defenders and continue to battle for freedom and the right."

Mrs. Carriel Presents Trees. Presenting the trees to Mayor Crabtree, Mrs. Carriel said in part:

"We meet today to present to the soldiers of the World war a token of esteem so that generations to come may know our high regard for the sacrifice made by the soldiers who so bravely helped win the great conflict. We shall never forget their services nor the importance of those days."

"We had hoped for Indian summer weather, which would permit us to have our exercises on the ground, but it was not so to be. It is two and one-half miles along which we hope to plant trees in honor of our soldier boys, and we earnestly hope that each one who served may be thus remembered. As they pass under the shade of the elms their hearts will thrill with fervency and patriotism as they recall the brave ones in whose honor the trees were planted and they will ever remember this day."

"We have willing hands today and when fifty years have passed these trees will tell the story and even a hundred and two hundred years hence the birds will sing in the branches of these trees and call attention to the work of our boys. It is the desire to unite the new park with Nichols park and make it a grand location, testifying to the sacrifice made by our brave boys and the esteem in which they are held. Therefore to you, Mr. Mayor, we present these trees, hoping that you and your successors in office will dutifully care for them and perpetuate the work so well begun today."

Mayor Crabtree Responds. Responding, Mayor Crabtree said in part:

"As mayor of Jacksonville, I have had many pleasant duties to perform, but none so pleasant as the one which devolves on me today, and I can surely promise for my successors and future park boards that the trees will have proper care."

"We recently dedicated to the soldiers of the Civil war one of the most beautiful monuments I ever saw, and it is only sad to think that it was not done fifty years ago that more of the brave defenders might have seen it, and I am glad that this matter has been more promptly undertaken."

"It is indeed especially appropriate that this work is undertaken so soon after the great war and also that elms have been chosen as the trees, for they are well suited to the place in which they are to be planted. We hope that all survivors of the World war will see these trees, enjoy them and feel that their services were fully appreciated."

"I assure you that Jacksonville will care for the trees and that they will ever be a fitting memorial of the esteem in which the country holds for its brave defenders."

Mrs. Carriel remarked that on the program it was stated that automobiles would be supplied for the grandmothers. She said that the Elks had supplied a good many and others had brought out their vehicles, and all who could do so were invited to ride out to the spot where it had been intended to have the exercises of the day."

After the benediction by Rev. W. H. Marbach a large number sought the long line of waiting cars and rode out to the beginning of Victory Drive, saw the trees that had been planted and duly consecrated the place in accord with the intention of the managers of the occasion.

THOMAS J. DOYLE DIES FROM INJURIES

Man Who Was Scalded at the New High School Building Monday Dies Thursday Morning—Inquest Was Held Thursday Afternoon.

Thomas J. Doyle, steamfitter in the employ of the Bernard Gause Plumbing and Heating company who was scalded in an explosion at the new high school building Monday afternoon died from his injuries at Our Savior's hospital Thursday morning.

Doyle had been in a critical condition since the accident. However, his physicians had held out hopes for his recovery and the change for the worse came early Thursday morning. Exhaustion was given as the cause of death.

After Doyle's death the body was removed to the undertaking rooms of J. H. O'Donnell and prepared for burial. Coroner Rose was notified and empanelled a jury and held an inquest Thursday afternoon.

The jury heard the testimony of W. J. Wood, engineer at the high school, Dr. Edward Rowe, who attended Doyle and Shields, and William Fitzpatrick a steamfitter in the employ of the Bernard Gause Plumbing and Heating company who was also working in the building at the time of the accident.

Mr. Wood was the first witness. He told the jury that he was on duty at the time of the accident. He returned from dinner about 2 o'clock and turned the steam on for the David Prince building as the weather was chilly. Shortly afterward one of the janitors came to the boiler house and told him to shut off the steam as something had happened in the new building.

Mr. Woods testified that he was carrying about forty five to fifty pounds of steam at the time of the accident. He said that as high as seventy pounds of steam had been carried on the line where the plug blew out.

Dr. Rowe whose office is across the street from the high school building told of being called at the time of the accident. He accompanied the injured man to Our Savior's hospital where he attended Dr. Norris in caring for Doyle.

Doyle had extensive burns on the head, body arms and legs and also of the respiratory passages. Death was due Dr. Rowe said, to burns in the lungs from the inhalation of steam.

William Fitzpatrick, a steamfitter was working in the basement with Doyle and Shields at the time of the accident. However, he was on the other side of a wall and thus escaped scalding, tho he was compelled to crawl thru the basement and escape thru a hole in the floor.

Witness said the plug which blew out had been put in by he and Doyle four or five weeks ago. Mr. Fitzpatrick told of Doyle going to the boiler room of the high school plant on election day when Mr. Woods was away and an assistant was in charge and fired up and gone away forgetting to close the drifts.

After hearing the evidence the jury returned a verdict that Doyle came to his death from exhaustion following burns and scalds from escaping steam caused by the blowing out of a six inch plug in one of the main lines in the tunnel at the high school building on November 8, 1920, while working at his occupation as steamfitter for the Bernard Gause Plumbing and Heating Company.

The jury was composed of William Batz, foreman, Walter D'Shara, clerk, and John H. O'Donnell, Louis Leurig and John M. Carroll.

Thomas J. Doyle was 30 years of age and had resided in this city practically all of his life. He learned his trade when a boy and during the world war was employed in army cantonments.

He was a member of the Church of Our Savior and of the Elks lodge. Besides his widow he is survived by his mother, three brothers and four sisters, John M. Doyle, Frank Doyle, Jacksonville; Joseph Doyle, Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. Martin, Peoria, Franklin; Mrs. J. A. Gallagher, Washington, D. C.; Sister Catherine DeRicca, a teacher in the Catholic schools at Pana, and Miss Hester Doyle, Jacksonville.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed and will be announced later.

AGED RESIDENT DIES THURSDAY

Mrs. Margaret Hahn Ricks Passes Away at Home of Daughter — Had Resided Here for Many Years — Funeral Services Saturday.

Mrs. Margaret Hahn Ricks, familiarly known among her friends as "Grandma" Ricks, fell asleep at nine o'clock Thursday morning Nov. 11 at the home of her daughter, M. S. Katie Klotz. She was born the 8th day of May, 1826 in Bavaria, Germany, and was married to Henry Ricks, March 4, 1851 in Springfield, Ill. Later they came to Jacksonville, and settled on a farm north of town, where they lived happily until the death of Mr. Ricks, Nov. 16, 1880.

To this union seven children were born, two of whom died in infancy. Two others preceded their mother in death, Carrie, Dec. 5, 1895 and Henry Nov. 24, 1903.

She is survived by three children, Mrs. Mary Batz, John Ricks and Mrs. Katie Klotz, all of Jacksonville, also eleven grandchildren and ten great grandchildren.

In addition to their own children Mr. and Mrs. Ricks took a motherless niece, now Mrs. Elizabeth Grassley, into their home, giving her the tender care of parents and receiving in return the tender love and care of a daughter.

For twenty-five years preceding her death Mrs. Ricks made her home with her daughter, Mrs. Katie Klotz, where she was most tenderly cared for and during her last long illness of five years and nine months, Mrs. Klotz was her most devoted nurse, and all her children gave her unceasing love and devotion.

Grandma, as we all loved to call her, had also a wealth of friends who gladly did what they could to ease her pain and brighten her life, and whom she dearly loved.

In early life Mrs. Ricks became a member of the Presbyterian church, and was an humble, faithful consistent christian throughout her long life, exerting a loving influence for good upon all with whom she came in contact.

The funeral will be held from the residence Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

AN OLD LANDMARK HAS BEEN TORN DOWN

The house that stood at 307 South Main street for over sixty and possibly seventy years and one of the oldest houses in the city, has been torn down. The sills in it were hewn out of oak logs, the weatherboard was walnut and the laths were hand made, and of hard wood. This house was occupied and owned by Brax Davenport for many years. Since then it has been owned by the O. D. Fitzsimmons estate and recently owned and occupied by the Young Garage. A contract has been let to George Johnson and Ellsworth Wells to build a modern garage on this site. It will be 64 feet by 74 feet and built of brick and concrete and steel, with a basement where the steam heating plant will be located. There will also be a rest room for ladies in addition to the office in the front part of the building.

TELLS SOLDIERS ABOUT VOCATIONAL TRAINING

Federal Board Representative Here for Conference With Ex-Service Men.

C. G. Umbaugh, representative of the Federal Board of Vocational Education, was in Jacksonville last night and met a number of Morgan county soldiers who are taking training or intend to do so. As the public pretty well understands, vocational education is provided by the government for disabled soldiers. The purpose is to rehabilitate the injured ex-service men to such a point that they will become self-supporting. If thru disability they are unable follow the occupation in which they were engaged before their war service, the board places them new lines of training. The board gets in touch with the ex-service men needing attention thru the bureau of war risk insurance.

Locally there are five or six men who are taking the training and others are eligible. Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan are included in district No. 8 in the federal Board of Vocational Education and the nearest office is maintained in Peoria. The federal board explains the work in which it is engaged in the following statement:

Due to the fact that a considerable number of disabled men have not applied for vocational education and also due to the fact that many who have been approved for training have not yet seen fit to accept it the following information is given.

Not Money Compensation.

Vocational rehabilitation is not money compensation and not physical restoration but is the training of the disabled man so that he can take his dollar because he has earned it and not because he was disabled in the service of his country.

The amendment of July 11, 1919 to the vocational rehabilitation Act set up four conditions for training with maintenance pay. These four conditions were: First, honorable discharge from military service since April 7, 1917; second, a disability incurred in, increased by, or aggravated by the service; third, that such a disability, in the opinion of the board, be a vocational handicap; and, fourth, that training must be feasible. Training approved according to these conditions is known as section two training.

In addition, to men who meet the four conditions described above, it was further provided that courses could be given without maintenance pay to any men who had been awarded compensation by the Bureau of War Risk Insurance. This is called section three training.

The task of the board therefore, is to determine not only if the above conditions have been met, but to retrain men who are entitled to it. In determining what training is to be given them five elements are usually considered.

Five Factors Considered.

The first of these is the man's previous education, which varies from the illiterate to the college graduate. The second is his previous industrial experience. The third thing which must be taken into consideration is the disability which varies from those which are slight to permanent injuries, such as double amputations and total blindness. The fourth and probably the predominating element is the man's desire. After all the advising is done, the dominating element is the man's desire. After all the advising is done, the choice in most instances must be left to the man, who after proper training is expected to make his own way. The last element is that of probability of after employment. Men are not trained for temporary work but rather for something which will insure them employment for the remainder of their lives.

The preparation of a case for the determination of a man's eligibility is, in District No. 8, a function of the District Office located at 14 E. Congress street, Chicago, and is exercised by a contact unit working in conjunction with an eligibility officer. As soon as a man is declared eligible for training the essential facts covering his vocational history and other essential facts as are on file in the district office are transferred to the proper branch office together with a statement of eligibility. The branch office is thereafter held responsible until a man is retrained and placed in suitable employment.

The cases of men approved training and residing in Peoria county are handled by the branch office of the Federal Board located at 719 Peoria Life Building, Peoria, Illinois and under the supervision of C. T. Wardwell. In addition to Peoria county twenty-seven other counties in the west central part of the state are included in the Peoria branch office territory.

Men Various Placed.

As soon as the man approved for training notifies the branch office that he is ready to begin his training, arrangements are immediately entered into for placing him in such training as will lead to the proper employment objective. This training is not all given in the schools and colleges as it is commonly supposed but may be arranged so that the man is placed with some firm or industry and trained directly on the job.

During the time that a man is actually in training under section two he receives training pay sufficient for himself and those dependent upon him. In addition, tuition, necessary books, tools, materials, and supplies are furnished him.

At the present time there are approximately two hundred and fifty thousand men in training in more than two thousand educational institutions and more than five thousand shops and factories.

East Indian Water Buffalo Hide

A unique display is now being shown in Myers Bros. window of a large East Indian Buffalo hide. This hide was loaned to the firm by the Hickock Mfg. Co., of Rochester, N. Y., who specialize in the making of Initial Belts. The display in the local firm's windows is a novel one and has attracted much attention. The belts made from this hide are very flexible and durable and when mounted with the Initial buckle make an attractive gift and are much sought as Holiday gifts. The display of belts should be seen to be appreciated.

WOOLFOLKS NOVELTIES COMING TO GRAND

That which promises to be one of the notable events of the season, will take place at the Grand theater Saturday afternoon and evening when Boyle Woolfolk's Novelties of 1920 will be presented. It is his latest and best effort on a travesty on important events.

"The Novelties of 1920" which will have the popular comedian, Max Bloom, (That's My Horse) in the principal comedy role, has been characterized as possessing distinct originality, applying alike to book, music, scenic effects and costumes. This production is said to differ from most so-called revues in that it takes as material for travesty, not simply theatrical hits of recent months but many events of current interest in world history and the most biased theatergoer must concede that "My Sweetie" is distinctive, is different, it has all the sparkle and brilliancy of book, lyric and music that could be desired by the most exacting patron of this type of entertainment.

FARM LAND

Present conditions easily justify the payment of 7% or more for the use of money. But it is generally believed that we will have a reduction in interest in the coming months and years. When farm land sells at $300 the interest at 7% is $21 per acre. If money were worth only 5% the same farm could be sold for $420 and the interest still be $21 an acre. This means that with the coming of lower interest rates we are sure to see a corresponding advance in land values.

Again each acre of land must feed more people in the coming years and we can hardly expect any decline in land values.

COUNTY IS INTERESTED IN RED CROSS SURVEY

Work Has Begun In Franklin and Waverly Precincts.

Mrs. Heinel, Miss Belden, Miss Parks and Miss Edith Rodgers, on behalf of the Red Cross, visited Franklin and Waverly to assist in organizing these precincts for the survey now in progress. They report a very cordial reception in both places, and were enabled to build up exceptionally strong organizations. The following named will serve on the Franklin committee: Mrs. Jerry Ryan, chairman; Miss Lila Seymour, Mrs. Julia Trambarger, Mrs. Daniel Gallagher, Dr. F. H. Metcalf, branch chairman; Miss Rhoda Scott. Following is the Waverly committee: Frank Wemple, Miss Rost Luken, Mrs. John Campbell, Wilson Smith, C. W. Low, Robert Coe, Rev. F. E. Smith, Rev. W. H. Fuller, Rev. J. W. Campbell, Miss Madge Deatherage, Miss Josie Stockdale. At Alexander: F. J. Kaiser, branch chairman, will select an appropriate committee. Owing to the fact that the annual roll call for membership is about to be launched, it is noted that for more than ordinary interest is being shown in all things pertaining to the Red Cross.

All signs would seem to indicate that the membership will be increased for the following year. If anyone will give even a moment's reflection to this subject he will quickly conclude that one dollar spent in this cause will bring greater results than if it were invested in almost any other cause on earth. The reason for this is very simple. It is because the dollar invested with the hundreds of thousands of other dollars contributed by other people has the purchasing and relieving power of the total membership.

In other words, if you desire to contribute to the upbuilding of your fellow man, give one dollar to the Red Cross, thereby becoming a member, and sharing with every other member the credit of the almost unbelievable amount of good this society is enabled to do, because of its vast membership and its democratic organization. Surely no one in this community begrudges the small amount of one dollar, which, when added to millions of its kind from other individuals, loses its identity as the lonely dollar and becomes endowed with the magic power of the whole mass contributed.

AT THE REVIVAL

The extraordinary forefulness of the preaching at the revival meeting now in progress at the Central Christian church in this city, the great power of Mr. E. E. Violette as an orator but more especially as a scholar and a thinker—are well illustrated by this one instance: A gentleman who, of course, would not wish his name mentioned in such an item as this, a gentleman not a member of any denomination but a life-long student and of broad contact with public affairs and whose love of books (so he confesses) has given him the habit of staying at home instead of hearing preaching—has listened to every sermon except one thus far delivered by the evangelist. And he states that he has never spent the same number of hours with keener interest or larger intellectual profit.

When the war broke out Mr. Chittenden enlisted for service, and was sent to France as a sergeant. The A. E. STORY OF WATER SUPPLY PROJECT IS RETOLD

Correspondent for Bloomington Pantagraph Tells How This City Has Secured Abundant Supply.

Writing under a Jacksonville date line a staff correspondent of the Bloomington Pantagraph tells of the fine piece of work done by Jacksonville in solving its water supply problem. The very interesting article follows:

This city has at last permanently solved its water problem, but it has taken more than forty years to do it. One of the surprising things about the whole matter is that the solution was so simple.

Centuries before white men came into this vicinity an insignificant little creek had meandered from the southeast to what is now the city of Jacksonville, and then kept on meandering around the eastern portion of the town. It was dry about half the time, but in the rainy season it would get on run pages and cause much annoyance to residents along its banks. This creek, named many years ago Mauvaisterre, is the basis of the solution of the water problem.

History of Struggle
Away back in the '70's Jacksonville tackled the water problem. Since that time many schemes have been tried. Some of them gave promise of having settled the whole question, but as time passed it was discovered something was wrong with the system, and other schemes were tried. Among the plans tested out were artesian wells, which were sunk to a depth of 2,000 feet; shallow wells, about 60 feet deep; an abandoned coal mine, the Illinois river and a reservoir 'n what is now Nichols park, known as Morgan park.

A Costly Experiment
The Illinois river experiment

was the most costly. The Illinois river is about twenty-two miles from Jacksonville, but ten or twelve years ago a company from Franklin, Pa., asked for and was given a franchise to furnish 3,000,000 gallons of water per day from that source. This concern sunk wells in the bed of the Illinois river, erected a pumping plant and laid a main from the river to Jacksonville, connecting with the city mains. The pipe line was imperfect and the wastage of water so great that only about 2,000,000 gallons a day could be supplied. It is said that between $200,000 and $400,000 was spent in the experiment, which failed lamentably, and a few years ago the equipment was sold as junk for $20,000.

No Water, Drink.
The surprising thing about the whole history of the water problem in Jacksonville is that at no time has the water from the mains been fit for drinking purposes. Often it was not even fit to bathe in, being simply real estate in solution. The citizens of Jacksonville have had to depend upon private wells or buy gravel springs water for the quenching of thirst.

The New System
A few years ago the citizens became thoroughly aroused over the situation and decided the matter must be settled for all time. Almost everyone had his pet scheme for solving it, and the harmonizing of these various beliefs was the great preliminary problem. However, a number of leading citizens, with their pet theories, but with a vision broad enough to realize that there must be harmony first, got together and asked the state water survey to send men to Jacksonville to look over the entire situation and recommend what would be the proper solution. The state water survey complied readily and sent over a number of experts, who spent several months canvassing the situation. When the investigation was complete the survey surprised the citizens by telling them that their problem was very easily solved and the Mauvaisterre creek, that despised rivulet, was the true solution.

Capacity of Creek
The engineers figured out that Mauvaisterre creek had a watershed of forty square miles. Jacksonville had no record of the rainfall, but down at Alexander, near there, a record had been kept for many years, and from this it was determined that the average rainfall is 34.99 inches. Allowing nine inches of this for waste, it was figured that the annual precipitation in this watershed, available for use by the city, is 14,500,000,000 gallons, or at the present rate of consumption, about 1,500,000 gallons daily, a supply for more than twenty-seven years.

Completing the System
The pumping plant of the city is located in the southeast section of the city, within a couple of hundred yards of Mauvaisterre. A firm of Chicago engineers was engaged to prepare the plans for the utilization of this enormous supply, which had been unnoticed by everybody. These plans called for the construction of a dam fourteen feet high and about 700 feet long, with a large spillway at the east end to take care of the excess water. This dam backs up the water for two and a half or three miles and gives a storage capacity of 418,330,000 gallons, and by raising the height of the dam two feet this storage capacity is doubled. In addition, the old reservoir, or Morgan lake, with a capacity of 35,000,000 gallons, is within a few feet of the new reservoir, and can be utilized whenever desired. The new dam and spillway were completed about a year ago and the rainfall last spring confirmed the estimates of the engineers, and such a volume of water came down the creek that it was necessary to enlarge the spillway to let the surplus pass off without damaging the dam. Jacksonville had no shortage of water this summer and there is a vast quantity of water now in the Mauvaisterre reservoir.

How It Works
As stated before, the water is not fit to use for drinking or cooking purposes, but the city is now installing a filtration system which will turn out as fine water as one could wish. The water flows by gravity to the pumps, but when the filtration plant is ready for use, which will be in a few weeks, it will flow first to the filtration plant and then to the pumps. From there it will be pumped about a mile to a reservoir on a hill in the west part of the city, which is about 100 feet above the level of the business district of the city, and from there will flow by gravity into the mains leading all over the town.

Jacksonville, by the 1920 census, has a population of 15,713, not counting the 3,000 or more inmates of the three state institutions, the hospital for the insane, the school for the deaf and the school for the blind. With the solution of the water problem it is believed by Jacksonville people that the town will rapidly grow, as they claim the water question has been a very great handicap to it. Jacksonville has excellent railroad facilities, four lines serving the city, the Chicago & Alton, Burlington, Wabash and C. P. & St. L. With an adequate water supply and these railroads they assert there is no reason why many factories should not be attracted there to the lasting benefit of the town.

Another article will tell of the financing of the project.

COMPLETES INSPECTION TOUR OF C. & A. SYSTEM

President W. G. Bied Returns to Chicago After Annual Fall Inspection Trip — Retrenchment Expected.

White Hall, Nov. 11.—President W. G. Bied today completed his fall inspection tour of the Chicago & Alton system, and his special train returned to Chicago this evening. As a result of this tour retrenchments of a rather radical extent are looked to begin on the 15th inst. The retrenchment will be in the reduction of operating and maintenance forces.

Mr. Bied was accompanied by his official family on the rounds, and by division officials over the respective divisions. Nothing is known exactly as to what is forthcoming until the axe begins its work, but it is known that section gangs will be considerably reduced all along the line, some of the men at White Hall and Roodhouse already having taken work in other lines because of what is coming. Two switching crews are to be taken off at Roodhouse, and there will be one crew dispensed with on the Bowling Green pusher, the engine to be operated on two shifts of eight hours each. Numerous car knockers are to be dropped. This action is in line with what other roads have already put into effect in reducing working forces at round houses, shops and terminal yards.

Mr. Bied is a man who makes friends wherever he goes, even on such an unfavorable mission as the present one in which scores of employees face dismissal. In this connection it is not out of place to mention that Mr. Bied's first railroad job was a call boy at Cheyenne, Wyoming, and he was hired by a man who spent much of his boyhood in White Hall. This man is W. E. Green, brother of Mrs. J. S. Pierce, and his interest in the then young Bied is believed to have aided Bied's advancement as he displayed qualifications as a railroad. Mr. Green since the war has been general manager of the Denver & Rio Grande at Denver, previous to which he was president of a road in the northwest. Green's son, Col. F. W. Green, is operating vice president of the Cotton Belt railroad with headquarters in St. Louis, and he is expected to visit White Hall during the coming year and renew associations in the event that the American Legion post renews its invitation to such a function as he was invited to address at the time of the smallpox epidemic a year that caused all gatherings to be called off.

for people of taste

To make griddle cakes tender use Kingnut in the batter; to bring out their good flavor spread it on them generously.

A War Lesson and its Sequel

In war-ridden Europe, where fats were not to be had at any price, margarin saved countless thousands of lives.

Here at home, millions of patriotic Americans learned the wholesome nourishment of margarin, and have naturally continued a delightful habit.

For once you try Kingnut on toast or griddle cakes, you would never think of giving it up even if it were not such a great economy. It is delicious, pure, and high in calories; fine in texture, and always uniform.

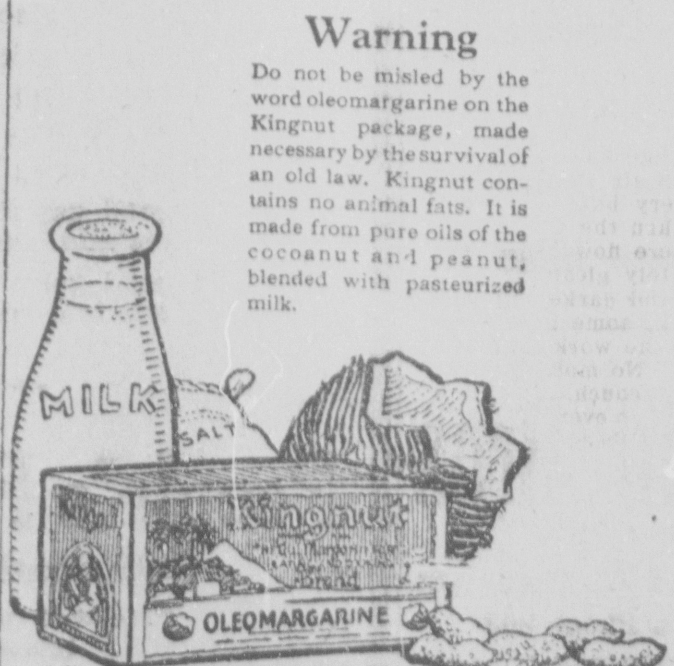

If you could see the spotless kitchens in which Kingnut is made, it would add to your delight in its taste. Pure vegetable oils and pasteurized milk—that is Kingnut.

Order a trial pound of your grocer to-day.

Kingnut is made and guaranteed by Kellogg Products, Inc., Buffalo, N. Y.

FIVE MEN HELD BY GRAND JURY TO FACE COURT

Work of Investigating Body Ends
Thursday—Van Tuyl Case Continues.

Five true bills were returned by the Morgan county grand jury for the November term of circuit court, which reported the result of its work Thursday morning. Two indictments are directed against the same man. The grand jury also reported on the visit of a committee to the county jail and premises.

Indictments returned were against Arno Luttrell, alias Arnold Luttrell, Leonard Berto and Lloyd Evans, Guy Alexander and Russell Higgins. Luttrell is charged with stealing an automobile on May 13 from Irvin Coulson. He was arrested in Sangamon county and returned to this city. By a second warrant, also of grand larceny, Luttrell is also charged with stealing a number of valuable tools at the same time he is alleged to have disappeared with the automobile.

Berto and Evans are alleged to have broken into the Walshaw railroad freight house in Jacksonville. They were arrested by police officers and special agents at the scene of the alleged attempted robbery, and have been held in the county jail. An indictment of burglary was returned against them.

Russell Higgins was indicted for grand larceny. It is claimed that he stole a typewriter from the Illinois Woman's college. The value of the machine was $40.

The case of Guy Alexander of Nortonville is a new one. He was recently released on bond from the county jail, where he was incarcerated after the shooting of Everett Kent at Nortonville. The wounded man is still a patient at Passavant hospital in this city. An indictment of assault with intent to kill was found against Alexander.

Although committees from the grand jury visited the county farm and inspected the court house, these trips are not required by law, and the reports were not received by Judge Smith. The report on conditions as found at the county jail follows:

"We find the jail in excellent condition, clean and painted up in good condition, sanitary and well lighted.

"We find confined in the jail three male prisoners. The prisoners report that they are well treated, well fed and warmed.

"We, the committee, recommend the following changes at the jail: To take the sheet iron from the old part of the jail and place it in the inside of the brick wall of the corridor so the prisoners can be turned out in the hall in day time. Then turn the old part of the jail into a bedroom, where beds may be placed so that we may have some place for jurors to have a place to sleep when they are compelled to be locked up over night."

This report is signed by George Alderson, Homer G. Cully, Luther Wiley, Alfred Larson, George Naulty and George Anderson.

Thursday, also, in the circuit court, was taken up with the Martha Van Tuyl will case. The complaining side rested during the morning, and the defense began to unfold its evidence. There was no way in which to predict just when this case will come to a close.

THE FLOWERY LANGUAGE OF THE SOUTH.

D. W. Cully has sent the Journal the following taken from a Southern paper. It certainly is a fine example of florid flowery language.

The latest election returns gave Senator Warren G. Harding, Republican candidate for President, in Tennessee nearly 10,000 majority. Alf Taylor, Republican, for Governor, over 38,000 more than Roberts, Democrat. Alf Taylor is a brother of the late governor and senator, Bob Taylor, who ran for governor on the Democratic ticket about 25 years ago, defeated his brother Alf, who also ran for governor. A southern lady presented Alf with a bunch of red roses and Bob a white rose. It was known as the "war of roses." Bob was the "knight of the white rose" and won. Bob Taylor was a silver-tongued orator, a great violinist and played with a troupe here in our opera house in this city a quarter of a century ago. Here is a sample of his oratory.

"It might be a dream of God, glowing with ineffable beauty trimmed about with blue mountains, from whose mossed covered peaks, a thousand glassy streams, spread out in mid-air and were like a thousand bridal veils, kissing a thousand rainbows from the sun—an archipelago of gorgeous colorings, flecked with green isles where grapevines staggered from tree to tree, drunk with nectars of their own clusters, where peach and plum and blood red cherries and every kind of berry hung like rubies and pearls a wilderness of flowers redolent of eternal spring, and pulsing bird song where dappled fawn played upon banks of violets, where leopards peaceful and tame lounged in the copes of the magnolia, and where lions parted in the jungles of roses—a billowy landscape festooned with tangled creepers, and curtained about with sweet scented groves of orange and pomgranates.

"The air was softened by a dreamy haze of perpetual summer, thru the mist.

"There flowed a truculent river alternately gleaming in the sunlight, and darkening into shadows down in some dark vale, fresh from the work-shop of God slept Adam. No monarch ever slept on a softer couch, and no earthly potentate was ever draped, with more costly or beautiful tapestry, and God caused to pass upon him a sleep, and forth from a painless wound in his side there sprang a being, blithesome as the air. Her hair hung like a strand of gold, her teeth were like pearls.

"He gazed on God's capsheath of creation, his first thought of the happiness of man—Eve, I think Adam must have wooed her in the morning when the dew was on the flower. I think he wooed her at the moon-tide by the river bank. I think he wooed her when the silvery moon flecked the feathery foam. I think the cattle must have departed in pairs and I can hear the quail whistle for his mate and the blue-jay and the robin stop quarreling in the top of the cherry tree and they hie away to the glen to build their nests and bear their young."

Word picture of Ex-Governor and Senator Bob Taylor of Tennessee.

MAMMOUTH BEAMS USED IN ELK'S LODGE HOME

Perhaps a dozen workmen are now busy in what was formerly the gymnasium of the Y. M. C. A. building, putting in place the great beams which are to support the new Elk's lodge room on the second floor. Instead of one large room in the east wing of the building, as formerly, there will be two floors, the upper to be used as a lodge room and the lower as a banquet hall. They will be so constructed that no supporting column for the ceilings will be necessary.

Three mammoth beams will extend from east to west across the gymnasium and on these the second floor will be built. Each of the beams weighs ten tons and great care is necessary in placing them. The beams are taken into the building through the large hole which has been made in the front of the east wing. They are then swung by means of pivotal rollers and a block and tackle from a north and south to an east and west direction.

Jack Screws, heavy pieces of oak lumber, block and tackle and crow bars are some of the things being used by the workmen to coax the beams into position. Inch by inch they are being raised, and the work is exceedingly dangerous. When finally in place, the beams will rest with their ends in grooves in the east and west walls of the old gymnasium, about midway between the floor and the arched roof.

Only 4% of the Hard Wheat Crop Was Good Enough for Enterprise

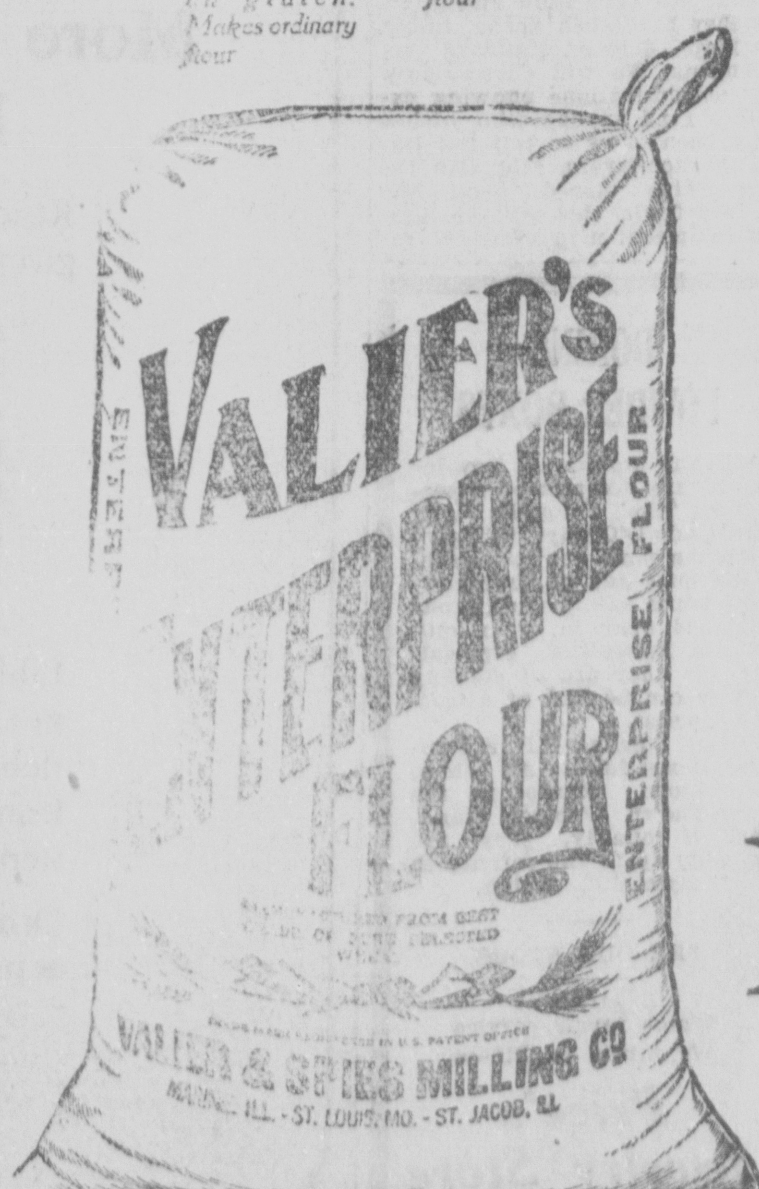

THIS year's hard winter wheat crop was a ninety-six per cent failure as far as quality was concerned. Only four per cent of it had strength enough to make it fit for Valier's Enterprise Flour.

There was lots of wheat in the fields, but most of it grew too fast. It filled out with starch and water before solid, strength-giving gluten could form.

Four per cent of the crop developed more slowly. Grown on the few scattered spots where the soil was drier, it matured into thinner, harder wheat, strong and full of gluten.

Enterprise Flour must be milled from such grain to produce the fine results you expect of it. So we got that kind of grain even tho every bushel, because of its scarcity, commanded the highest premium we ever paid. At least you, who use Enterprise Flour, can count on the continued high quality of your baking.

As you'd expect, Enterprise costs more than ordinary flour. It's worth more, for it produces better baking. It eliminates needless, costly failures, and a sack goes much further. The economy and wisdom of paying for quality in flour will be more apparent this year than it ever has been before.

Stewart Company Makes on 18% Cut in Truck Prices

Head of Buffalo Concern Says All Should Join in War on High Costs

Price reductions averaging about 18 per cent., have been announced by T. R. Lippard, president of the Stewart Motor Corporation of Buffalo, manufacturers of automobile trucks.

"This bedrock reduction in Stewart prices means a large temporary loss to the factory while using up material on hand," said Mr. Lippard in making the announcement, "but I believe that all business men should arbitrarily reduce their prices and help put the business of the country on a sound basis quickly, thus insuring continued prosperity and full employment of labor."

The old and new prices of Stewart trucks, as announced, are as follows:

POULTRY NEWS

With the market opening on November with prices of eggs ranging from sixty cents to one dollar per dozen, a few facts at this time might be of value to keepers of poultry. Fresh eggs are always in demand at this season of the year, when the best layers of the flock are molting in new plumage, egg production falls off. This is what is termed the rest period of the hen.

The early molters as a rule are the poorest layers, and at this time should be well fed with a variety of grain in litter, and a warm mash given daily, during the day of soaked oats, draining the water off, then mixing wheat bran, shorts and charcoal, feeding it in trough, all they will clean up in half an hour. This milk or warm water for drink, will start a hen laying if she is properly constructed for that purpose. If not she should be eliminated and sold for her meat value, thousands have been marketed this fall from farm flocks where from thirty five to fifty per cent are formed as poor egg producers, and many that produce none at all.

Culling flocks means saving of food and time, the average hen houses on farms are not constructed to give proper protection against changes in the weather at this time of the year, many are over crowded. Young stock take colds which afterward develops into roup. Too many houses have nailed down porches which make ideal harbors for the mites. The greatest danger to poultry above all others that might be questioned, help houses without drop boards, that are those who allow ducks to run with their filthy water, this means nothing but filthy water, this is the cause of intestinal parasites, diseases like canker of the mouth, and chicken pox.

Much complaint has been made of hens and young chickens dying first and then lame these symptoms indicate liver trouble caused by the exclusive one grain feeding, especially is this true where new grain is fed and no variety in the way of mash food supplied. With the opportunity that Illinois poultry keepers have of informing themselves upon these practical matters, there is no excuse. Illinois has more and better poultry journals, publications and more poultry exhibits than any other state in the union.

On November first thru the exports, enterprise, and hard work of the Illinois State Poultry Breeders Association an egg laying contest was started at Quincy, Ill., that contains 100 pens of five pullets from almost every state in our union, the business men of Quincy backed up this enterprise with over six thousand dollars in leasing a suitable piece of ground, building four houses ten by one hundred, which are filled with none but standard varieties of fowls so that we may prove to the world that fine form and beautiful plumaged fowls are superior to cross-bred or mongrel fowls.

Every bird entered in this contest is tested as to its possible egg producing capacity is trap nested to prove the forecast of its ability, is scored in accord with the American Standard of Perfection, as to its fancy and ornamental value, a record is kept of every hen entered and a weekly report sent to the owners whose fowls are entered in the contest, also to all members of the state association. This enterprise should interest every poultry breeder in the state and should cause the enrollment of thousands to state membership so that this worthy enterprise might have the financial support until such a time when our state legislators would recognize the educational value and appropriate a sufficient amount of money to put Illinois on equal footing with some other states that now are carrying on such valuable enterprises.

That means educational progress, and proper recognition of the poultry industry as a whole, which still stands next to corn, as the greatest commercial value of all farm productions, and is quoted at one billion and three hundred and ninety millions in dollars, yet not a single farm less than ten acres is taken into consideration in this government census report of 1920.

Another fact worthy of notice the American Poultry Association is the largest live stock association in the world over 8,000 members with Illinois ranking third in membership. Morgan county has a poultry association that will again put on an exhibit of standard poultry and pet stock December 13 to 18, 1920. There are several hundred names in the Prairie Farmer book who are therein mentioned as being farmers who are breeders of standard poultry.

This local association invites these Morgan county breeders to exhibit their advertised standard fowls at this 1920 show and prove that they have such flocks, filling to a large degree standard requirements. We will there have daily demonstrations showing exhibitors (and anyone who wishes information) how to tell the layers, the non-layers, and also the fancy value placed upon the standard fowls, this will be done by a competent man of wide experience and fine ability, to give these demonstrations that should interest any one who may want information. Mr. F. S. Tarbill of Havana, Ill., a banker, druggist, business man and licensed American poultry association judge.

The Morgan County Poultry Association should have enrolled every farmer and poultry breeder to get the protection against chicken thieves, a card is given every member to tack on his poultry house upon which the reward of twenty five dollars is offered for the capture and conviction of such law-breakers.

More digestible, says the U. S. Children's Bureau about evaporated milk

Read the opinion of the U. S. Children's Bureau, recently given to the Mothers of America:

"Evaporated milk (if used when the can is first opened) is a safe food, because it is free of all germ life. It resembles in this point boiled milk, and, like it, is superior in point of sterility and also in digestibility to pasteurized or raw milk, since the digestibility of both the fat and casein is probably increased by the exposure of the milk to high temperature in processing." Quoted from "Milk, The Indispensable Food for Children,"—published by the Children's Bureau of the U. S. Dept. of Labor in The Care of Children Series.

Libby's Evaporated Milk is a fine, pure milk that you can trust in the nutrition of your children. To begin with, it is simply rich, country milk. Then Libby evaporates half the moisture from it—but nothing is added, nothing else removed. Every step of the process is under the watchful eyes of Libby experts.

Order Libby's Milk from your grocer today. You will find it as pure and perfect a product as human intelligence can provide.

Stays bend edgewise as well as flatwise, thus making it possible for the body to assume any position without discomfort. Furthermore they have powers of length-only insure pleasing unbroken lines but prevent the stays from pushing through the cloth of the corset.

A DOUBLE ANNIVERSARY
Comrade A. P. Vasconcellos felt very complacent over the fact that the soldiers' and sailors' monument was dedicated on his birthday. It is a pleasure to know that the worthy gentleman was spared to see the beautiful structure for the defense of his country, saw many bloody engagements and lived to enjoy the fruits of a useful and well spent life.

IMPORTANT! Stock Reducing Sales!

are in progress throughout the store
In the adjustment of stocks because of conditions, the buying public is reaping the harvest right now. Prices are lower than the actual manufacturing conditions justify. Replacement values on many lines of goods are as high or higher than retail prices. With the Fall season at its very beginning, most unusual buying opportunities are presented. The saving chances are so great and unusual that we urge our patrons to take full advantage of the occasions created by market flurries.
